

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

- A saccadic-motion detector includes an optical apparatus configured to focus light received from a subject's eye onto a focal plane, and an optical navigation chip
- 5 comprising an optical sensing surface disposed substantially in the focal plane of the optical apparatus, the optical navigation chip configured to convert analog light reflected from the eye to digital indicia of movement of the eye.

TRA 1895301v1